Bottled Water

Bottled water is big business, but in terms of sustainability bottled water is a dry well. Bottled water isn't good value, it's no healthier than tap water, and it increases waste while generating unacceptable levels of Carbon. For every bottle of bottled water that is produced the CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are 0.16 kg/CO<sub>2</sub>, which means that for every 23,000 bottles sold, one tonne of carbon is produced.

This can be reduced by 80% if this facility provides the best quality of drinking water from its most local source by installing its own Table Water Bottling System, which will reduce its impact on the environment while improving its economic bottom line.
